Supporting Reading Virtually

Supporting your child with reading, is vital as it supports with their fluency and comprehension. Not only that, but it supports them with their spelling, vocabulary and sentence structure for writing.

Therefore, when working with your child at home it is important that we listen to them read daily.

If your child is in Key Stage One they will be on a staged book. This allows the text that they are reading to be carefully matched to their phonic ability. You can find the stage your child is on by looking at the back of one of their books in their book bag eg. 'Book band 6 Orange'. However, stages 13-20 are suited to Key Stage 2 children if they too would like to read ebooks.

It is important to read plenty of these books (sometimes many times over) until your child can read them fluently and with ease.

To access books online, you can access the FREE library of ebooks on Oxford Owl.

Select the stage your child is on and you will get a library of books

Here, your child can read the book to an adult or listen to the story until they feel confident enough to read it. Attempting to read it independently and then listening to it will help them with pace and understand what they have read. The associated activities are also fantastic to support further learning.
